IF YOU SHOULD EVER GET MARRIED.

If you should ever get married, John, you'll want to be a little liberal.

Put big enough for two.

One looking glass will do for both.

And one spare bed-cupboard.

And if you begin love's life might.

You'd better take him.

In further to moderate, John.

And let the stuffed chair wait.

One looking glass will do for both.

Yourself and loving mate.

And brooms, too, and what things which make a fine appearance.

If you can better afford it, they will look better.

Some think they must have pictures, John.

Separate and costly, they.

Your wife will be a picture, John.

Let that suffice for you.

Remember how the wife man said.

"Aunt and love within it."

It better make a little room.

With lockers every minute.

And less word as to cooking, John.

Your wife can do the best.

You love to make the biscuit rise.

It better for than yeast.

Do make it each day for you.

Bring turkey to your table.

It'll better relish by and by.

With you are better able.

For all you buy pay money, John.

Money that is a mining way.

If you would have your life run smooth.

Think it no better way.

A note to pay is an aching thing.

It thing you choose to call it.

When it hangs o'er a man who has

No money in his wallet.

And now when you are married, John.

Don't try to ape the rich.

It took them many a tollsome year

To give their credit a name.

And if you should play the summit, John.

Look well to your obliging.

And don't will all your obligations.

The tell and care of wishing.

—W. W. WALKER.

GOOD MAN AND GOOD WIFE.

FROM THE QUARTER OF COFFEE.

To-morrow noon I'll be at the fair.

The good wife says to her husband,

"The market for the pig is better, John."

And looks to him in a pan.

And now in bed they lie at night.

The good wife says to her husband,

"Do not and be the good wife."

"I'm now at the market," she said.

"My first I cannot see."

And though it shows a hundred years.

The good wife says to her husband,

"And then they make a supper there."

In whispered conversation.

Who has she done for the good wife.

Who has she done for the good wife.

Who has she done for the good wife.

Who has she done for the good wife.

Who has she done for the good wife.

Who has she done for the good wife.

Who has she done for the good wife.

Who has she done for the good wife.

Who has she done for the good wife.

Who has she done for the good wife.

MINING ITEMS.

The Deadwood Pioneer says there is more quartz mining being done in the Hill, this summer, than they have seen in this gulch during any summer months previous to the last.

Reports are prevalent that important discoveries have been made in placer and quartz veins in Yamhill county, Oregon, the former in Moore's Valley, the latter on north fork of the Yankee hill near Dalhart's mill.

The Boise Statesman of the 24th says: "Mr. Robert Beardsall, assayer at the United States assay office, called on us yesterday with a $5,000 brick one hand. The assay office is turning out a good many of these bricks this summer, which speaks well for the yield of our mines."

The Honor Mining Review asserts that the old Howe diggings are likely to come to the front again. There was an immense amount of soil washed out there from 1838 to 1864, estimated as high as $6,000,000, and now miners are going for the sources from which all this came.

The Chicago Mining Review of the 24th says: "Utah is pushing to the front in a mining way, to a surprising degree this season. The Frisco camp, which the Review has denominated the 'legitimate successor of the Comstock,' has now the two largest mines in the world—the Horn Silver and Carra."

A $80 wagon was taken out last week in Ruby Creek diggings, Washington Territory. One firm of traders as the head of navigation purchased $10,000 worth of that silver, not during the past four weeks. There are 400 men in the mines. The water is falling rapidly. A number of men are at work with rockers, taking out in many cases from $6 to $12 per day to the man.

A wonderful discovery is reported from Green River, Utah, where it is said there has been found a deposit of carbonate ore, 3,000 feet in extent, of unknown thickness, and capped by an iron reef. The ore runs all the way from 300 to 700 ounces of silver to the ton, with 40 per cent. of lead. This discovery is said to surpass in richness and importance the deposit for which Leadville has become famous.

At Grass Creek, near Leland, Southern Oregon, four persons own 3,000 acres of dead land, until now used as farming. Recent prospects show that the entire tract of land will pay well for mining. They propose to open the mine by constructing ditches to run hydraulic. Grass Creek furnishes sufficient water to run numerous hydraulics for many months in the year, and plenty to run one the entire year. Ditches will be from six to eight miles in length, and are easily constructed. Much of the work can be done with plows and scrapers, giving from eight to 400 feet pressure, with ample dump for successful mining.

Reminiscences.

CINCINNATI, August 2.—The Republican yesterday said Lima nominated W. K. Boone, of Allen County, from the fifth district.

Specials from Bullet County, Kentucky, report the fatal shooting of Turner Wilson by Ben Johnson, a son of ex-Lieutenant Governor Johnson; but Friday, at a political meeting at Balltown.

Acting Commissioner.

New York, August 2.—The President has designated Myron E. Jewell, principal clerk of the General Land Office, as Acting Commissioner, during the temporary absence of Gen. Williamson.

Tanner Fallings.

New York, August 2.—For the first time since he commenced his fast, Dr. Tanner admitted this morning he felt very weak. His stomach was in bad condition, but he expressed confidence in his ability to accomplish the undertaking. His eyes were listless, looking farred, and face pinched and haggard. Still his watchers asserted he had somewhat improved since Monday. He had suffered from nausea three times since midnight. Small quantities of mineral water were administered during the night, and early this morning he swallowed two ounces of very hot water. At noon he was quietly resting. He received the following dispatch from Paris: "Don't waste strength driving out; shut off all spectators; have only your doctors and attendants; your experiment is conducted here with great interest by scientists, and ridiculed by fools. The hot weather is against you; have courage, your father, and hold on; wish you success."

(Signed.) Dr. MARVIN STARR.

Physicians are inclined to the opinion the cable was sent by J. Marvin Starr, M. D., but Dr. Tanner, who seemed pleased with the dispatch, rather doubted it had come from that physician.

Dr. Tanner at 5 o'clock started out on his usual evening drive, accompanied by physicians. He returned at 8 and was very cross and peevish. He rested on his cot and seemingly slept soundly for some hours. At 10 he awoke, and undressing, retired for the night, but did not rest quietly, his stomach being out of order.

The Benders.

OMAHA, August 2.—The Bender mystery is finally settled beyond all question by the partial confession of the woman arrested with the man who was on Saturday identified as old John Bender, by Hoffman, an old Kansas neighbor. The woman says Mrs. Bender died in the Chocoma Indian in 1876; that the man arrested is old John, and that Kate and John Bender, Jr., are going by wagon East. The party was seen in Iowa, when one of them was to go to the Kansas farm and dig up $700, buried there. She will make a full confession to save her own life. It will be remembered that the Bender family fled the country during the search for State Senator York, of Kansas, in 1873, at which time ten or twelve bodies were found buried on the farm owned by old John Bender.

Shot by a Crazy Husband.

LEWISTON, Aug. 2.—James Curran, who has at times shown evidence of insanity, shot and fatally wounded his wife, Marie, to-day. After having been de-acred sane by a Commission four years ago, he left his family and only returned this morning. He went to his home and said to his wife, "I wouldn't keep tormenting me so every night." She replied, "Why, Jim, I've not been tormenting you, I've been working all the time here at home." He then drew a pistol. She turned to fly and he began shooting the third ball entering her side and lung.

San Francisco Fire.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 2.—A fire broke out on a lot of light wood buildings at Red Bluff this morning. It spread to adjoining buildings, sweeping the entire block. Loss about $100,000; insured one-half. A number of business firms were burned out.

Births and Deaths.

New York, August 2.—During July there were reported at the Bureau of Vital Statistics 3,287 deaths and 2,418 births. For the corresponding month in 1879 the figures were 3,113 deaths and 2,601 births.

Another Strike at the Park.

PARK CITY, Aug. 2.—A special to the Salt Lake Tribune says Mr. R. F. Ferry is to be concentrated upon a rich strike in the Utah, adjoining the White Pine. A fine body of chloride and sulphate ore has been opened on the upper level, assaying into the hundreds. Drifting is being prosecuted on the lower level, and the incline pushed down to the third level.

An Illiter Scold.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 2.—Max Burchardt, editor and proprietor of the Humorist German Weekly, suicided to-day by taking morphine capsules unknown. He was a native of Berlin and aged about fifty.

A Tragedy of the Circus.

About 8 o'clock yesterday forenoon, says the Detroit Free Press, a man whose form was full of wrinkles, his limbs, and wrists crawled out of a coal-shed in the rear, and began yawning and rubbing his eyes like one who had put in a heavy night.

"Looking for work?"

"No, no, not exactly."

"You'd be run in if you hang around in this way," remarked the officer.

The man put his hands on the top of a smutting-post, and after a long look at Canada, he turned and said:

"I dunno exactly what I'm going to do. I did live out here about eight miles, but I've separated from the old woman. Yes, separated last night."

"What's the trouble?"

"Well, she was my second, and I was her second, and we never got along any too sweet. We both of us think we knew it all, and neither felt like giving in. We came to the circus."

"Ah! you did?"

"And that's where the separation took place—right in front of the sacred hyacinths from Japan. I'll know they advertised an electric light there?"

"Yes."

"Well, we'd never seen one. When we got into the menagerie there stood a bright light. Then some the animals. Then we came to a darning old bear. Further on were the lions and tigers and monkeys, but no electric light. We walked three times around the old tent without coming to his cage and I got mad. Says I to one of the chaps over the rope:—'Whar, in thunder is the cage with the electric light?' He went to see him or have our money back!" The fellow he grinned all over, and lots of folks laughed right out, and my wife she dew up and said 'T'made a fool of myself. How?' says I. 'Why the electric light is not an animal at all,' says she, 'but it has something to do with the clown.' We had a big jaw right there. She saved my hat is, and I broke her parcel and then we separated."

"And you won't make up?"

"I make up? Never! She can take the electric light and bake and eat him, but I'm a man who never crawls! I'm going down to Toledo, I am, and by this time to-morrow, I'll be drunker at home!"

"And you didn't see the electric light after all?"

"No! I don't believe they had any! Maybe they thought they could work that sort of thing out on the public by another name, but I tumbled in a minute. I'm an old times myself, and my wife is stouter, and when I think of how I stood there and left her call me a fool afore all the people, I'm mad!"

"And let me with me, dear home, and I'll be half of the yoke of oxen!"

LITTLE SCRAPS.

They smothered her smile, patted brow, and gave to her dress without number; the moment, 'Tis better none.

O! that that teacher's comb!"

The only way to keep a boy from going in swimming is to convince him in some way that swimming is a duty he owes to his mother.

It makes no difference to a man who is down whether he slipped on a banana peel or stubbed his toe against a peach stone. —Felix Pass.

A little girl in church, after the contribution plate had been passed, complacently and audibly said: "I paid for four mamma; was that right?"

"What is worse than cracks?" asks a young lady correspondent. Nothing we know of, unless it is having the folks come in from the country to spend the Fourth.

A little boy, weeping most piteously, was interrupted by some unkind occurrence. He hushed his cries for a moment; he thought was broken. "Ma," said he, resuming his sobs, "what was I crying about just now?"

—It must have been an exceptionally dull day, even for a Troy boy, who was persuaded to work a wheelbarrow under the impression, as stated by his father, that it was an improved kind of bicycle. —ALBANY TRAVELER.

BEARING AN awkward silence; Mrs. Montague Smart (suddenly) to her husband, who has not opened his lips since he was introduced to her a quarter of an hour ago:— "And now let us talk of something else!" —PUNCH.

A young lady who has been married a short time lately told a "boom friend" that there was only one thing more astonishing than the readiness with which Ned gave up smoking when they were engaged, and that was the rapidity with which he took to it again after they were married.

An elderly darkey was inquiring of a policeman if he knew anything of his son Foe. The policeman replied that there was a young darkey in the lock-up for breaking up a prayer meeting with an axe handle. "Dat's him," exclaimed the overjoyed parent, "could no be was gwine to 'muse himself!"

"I do!" remarks the merchant; "I cut," adds the carpenter; "I trumpet spade," says the gardener; "I trumpet," answers the railroad Superintendent; "I lead horse," adds the brewer; "I follow suit," says the tailor with his little bill; "I trumpet," chimes the cornet player; "You cut," shouts the butcher, as the dog runs off with a two-pound steak. Thus many classes seem to be made game of.
