FOREWORD

The 1924 MIRROR purports to perpetuate the memory of those events of a peaceful High school year; those happenings which have not only blended our spirit and devotion into high idealism, but help make for the Malad High a place enviable among institutions of learning. That idealism is the archetype of this volume.

DEDICATION

To record our sincere respect, profound admiration, and deep gratitude for their untiring efforts in developing a greater High School for Malad. We, the members of the Junior Class, affectionately dedicate this volume of the Mirror to the

Senior Class History

The members of the class of '24 have always felt that school is not a place to gain mere book knowledge, nor is it a place to spend time. They have felt that school is a place of preparation for the trials and battles of life. If we are better able to meet life's problems, our school life will not have been in vain.

For this common-sense ideal we have our former instructors and class advisers to thank. Mr. E. M. Decker has been our advisor for our entire High School life. Our other advisors have been Miss Taylor (first and second years), Miss Daines (third year), and Miss Robinson in this, our last year. Mere words fail to express our gratitude to them.

We entered High School as a record-breaking class of one hundred thirty Freshmen. We have continued to break records and bring about needed reforms, such as a better and more unified class organization and regular class meetings. We have been exceptionally unified. If any measure has been inaugurated, it has been pushed over with a "bang" by the entire class.

Wishing to perpetuate this record we have elected the following officers: LeRoy Jones, President; Clyde Briggs, Vice-President; Esther Thompson, Secretary and Treasurer. All praise to our past and present officers.

We have not confined our efforts to mere scholastic activities. The various forms of athletics, baseball, basketball and football owe many of their victories to the Class of '24 men. The various operas and plays owe much of their success to our efforts.

Our social affairs have always been huge successes, the Junior Prom especially.

To the Faculty, past as well as present, we give our most sincere thanks for their hearty co-operation with us in our efforts to better ourselves, the class and the school.

Fault—She's married.

The Senior Class Will

The school is closed, the halls are still,
 So we think it fit to make our will,
 So that someone else may get benefit,
 For the things that are left, although we quit,
 And now we take our pen in hand,
 According to the laws of this free-born land,
 And make our will and testament.
 In thoughts and feeling in which 'tis meant.
 Bill Anderson wills his mirth and glee,
 To Della Morgan and Bernice Leigh.
 Then Delta Arbon, so good and nice,
 Wills her gift of vamping to Vera Price.
 Ardella Anderson, cold and tart,
 Wills her luck to girls wishing bachelor's hearts.
 Fern Atkinson with her taunting grin,
 Wills to Milton Deschamps the grit to win,
 Clyde Briggs of course who is always blowin'
 About his height, wills it to Donald Bowen.
 Then Verna Bell, the down town flirt,
 Wills her art of whistling to Eliason, Bert.
 Della Bush wills her charming smile,
 To any man crossing o'er the stile.
 Eph Bolingbroke heavy set, not tall,
 Wills to the boys dear old football.
 Elizabeth Burnett, a least bit thin,
 Wills to every student the right to grin.
 Virgil Camp, who is rather slow,
 Has a heart for someone, if you should know.
 Pearl Christensen with the sleeping blues,
 Wills to all the right to snooze.
 And Robert Denning, grinning broad and wide,
 Wills his love for the ladies to Jensen, Clyde.
 Vaughn Evans now takes pen in hand,
 And says, "What mine is mine," do you understand.

Myrthus Evans, a wayward chap,
 Wills success to those who can sit and nap,
 In the study hall when the teacher's around,
 Myrthus says he's positive he never slept sound.
 Now Roy Earl, a real heart stealer,
 Wills his love for music to Emery Wheeler.
 Leola Evans and Joseph Earl,
 Will success to those who their hair can curl.
 Maude Evans says she dreams of homes,
 So she wills her heart to Evan Jones.
 Eleanor Gibbs with her dimpled chin,
 Says "Why sit you idle, you'll always win."
 Fred Howard now since he's won great fame,
 Wills to all short men his towering frame.
 Ben Harding wills his stubbornness
 To Mary Lehman and Esther Lusk.
 And Kenna Tovey, a gay young miss,
 Wills to Virgil Evans a parting kiss.
 Esther Thompson is glad she's done,
 But she's nothing to leave since her heart is won.
 Katherine Williams, so calm and still,
 Wills to all fresh gentlemen her mind and will.
 Reed Zundel now from his well earned station
 Wills his love for debating to every nation.
 Day Hanks the only obedient child
 Wills the art of quietness to those who are wild.
 Thelma Hill now comes along,
 And wills her love for the price of a song.
 Edna Illum, she never was bad,
 Wills her loving heart to some lucky lad.
 Rowland Jones wills his bashfulness
 To those who are inclined to fret and fuss.
 Doehla Jones, so thoughtful and sane,
 Says she is waiting to change her name.

THE MIRROR

LaRue Jensen, with her dimples wide,
Wishes soon to become a bride.
Lewis L. Jones wills his determination
To high school students in every nation.
LeRoy Jones wills his name, that's all,
To a different frame, if it's neat and tall.
Mary Jones wills to William Morse,
The power to rule the house by force.
Lucinda Lehn, plump and round,
Wills to all her mind so sound.
Now Ben Lusk, in his cunning way,
Wills his heart to those who in St. John's stay.
Rachel Miffin (no one should keep choice)
Wills her art of singing to Howard Peck.
Adolphus Moon, singing all the time,
Wills to Reao Herold the right to shine.
Eva Monson, our easy, go lucky
Wills the art of vamping to those who are p.u.c.l.
Viola Palmer wills, I have been told,
To game Lynn Williams her heart of gold.
And Bertha Roderick, refined and quiet,
Wills her sense of reasoning to Harriet Wight.
Edna Sawyer, please take care,
Wills to all soft hussies her new bobbed hair.
Royal Swenson, oh say but he's funny,
Wills to every girl his heart and money.
Gladys Vaughan, our first mistake,
Won't will anything for her husband's sake.
Now Ray Jones wills his basketball fame
To any fellow worthy the name.

THE MIRROR

His worthy advice, do the best you can,
As for me, it's hard on a married man,
And now our will is made and signed,
Below our motto and creed you'll find.

S—is for our Study-hall, a pleasant place to meet.
E—is for our English class, we our teachers wish to greet.
N—is for the noble thoughts, they're many in this class.
I—is for the idle moment, we always let them pass.
O—is for our oddities, these are very few.
R—is for the splendid rules, both the old and new.
S—is for the sunny days we hope for in the future.

O—is for the openings our minds begin to mature.
F—is for the faculty, indeed we leave our love with you.

T—is to us you have always been true.
W—is for willingness, this applies to us all.
E—is for earnestness, below par we never fall.
N—is for notions we have about shirking,
T—is together, as we've always been working.
Y—is you'll remember us at some future date.

F—we must leave, it's all Seniors' fate.
O—is oh gracious, why speeding of years.
U—it is useless to shed salty tears.
R—is for right, as we hope you'll all be,
So good-bye every-one, we're on our journey.

—VIRGIL CAMP.

Farewell

The year is past, and now at last
Our judgment day is near,
When Seniors bait the hook and cast,
The line with sickening fear.

We find in life, we must partake
Of trials and tribulations,
We lay our future life at stake,
To gain to higher stations.

We've lain awake, we've worked, we've slaved,
To gain what we now have,
We stood our ground, while teachers raved,
And called us "sis" and "cad."

And now we're doomed to leave this school,
Perhaps in other climes we'll dwell,
Always keep the Golden Rule,
Goodbye, it is a sad farewell.

—VIRGIL CAMP

"Boys mean nothing to me."

Junior Class History

We, the Class of '25, began our third year in the Malad High School with about eighty-five members in our class. We elected as our president, Marion Kerns; vice-president, Mabel Hancock, and secretary and treasurer Thelma Dredge. Our advisors, Miss Duines, Mr. Bingham and Mr. Anderson have always been ready and willing to assist us in any way possible.

Our class party, which was a decided success, was given December 14th. In the "Do Without Club" the Juniors have taken an active part, the president and secretary being from our class. We have also been well represented in the Athletics of the school this year. We had seven men on the Football team, and they were among the best players. Two of the star players on the Basketball team were Juniors, and we are expecting the same kind of results from our class when the baseball season commences. The City Government didn't even slight the Junior class when it came time to elect officers, for a Junior is Mayor at the present time.

As for the Junior "Prom," it couldn't be excelled anywhere. Our worthy "Social Calendar" will give an idea of what that was like.

Each member of our class is striving for a high step upon the ladder of life. Let us so work that it may be said that the Class of Twenty-five are record-breakers in attaining the exalted heights, where our fellowmen will look up to us and say "That Class has been a decided success."

Sophomore Class History

The Class of '26 entered ninety strong, a diligent, energetic band of workers, striving to uphold the standards of the Malad High School.

By good judgement and will we chose 25 our protectors and leaders: President, Lynn Williams; Vice-President, Isobel Monson; Secretary and Treasurer, Edna Richards; Yell Master, Howard Peck, and Class Representative, Dorothy Fredrickson. These officers proved their ability in working for the interest and advancement of the Freshman class during the year 1922-1923.

As a class, standing for good sportsmanship, we were represented by Lynn Williams, Orin Hunsaker, Dick Jones and Leonard Castleton on the foot-ball squad. These boys worked hard in upholding the Freshman athletics. Lynn Williams also represented the class in basket ball.

The Class of '26 came back the following year, 1923-1924, ninety-one strong, as eager and willing in work and advancement as the previous year.

The following officers were elected: President, Leonard Castleton; Vice-President, Lynn Williams; Secretary and Treasurer, Edna Richards; Reporter, Cleopha Richards; Yell Master, Silas Thompson; Class Representative, Anna Lyle McCulloch; class advisers, Miss Wilson and Mr. Losee. We must say that the Sophomore class advisers have worked hard for what they thought best for Sophomore students, and have always been ready and willing workers.

In football, the class was represented by the same boys as last year, and in basket ball by Lynn Williams, Lelloy Thomas, and Orin Hunsaker, who are showing their ability as players. These boys, with two other Sophomore players won the class series of 1924. We must also add that eleven songs out of seventeen were written by Sophomore students in the song and yell contest. We, the Sophomore students, hope for just as good work as we advance into the Junior Class next school term.

Freshmen Class History

One hundred and fifteen Freshmen registered at the beginning of the school year. We feel that our first year in High School has been an important one. During the year we have been faithfully served by our class officers, Daniel Williams, president; Faye Briggs, vice-president; Leah Evans, secretary and treasurer, and Lucile Hall, class representative. Mr. Andrews and Miss Condit have served as class advisors.

Among the important events of the year was our tug-of-war with the Sophomores, in which our boys showed their superior strength and won the victory.

The Freshman party was given on February 8th. The assembly hall was artistically decorated with red, white and blue. After a very pleasant evening of dancing, refreshments were served. The music was by the High School Orchestra. The High School faculty and the basket ball team were the guests of the evening.

The Freshman Class had charge of the assembly program on February 28th. This consisted of a short play, called "The House of Good Literature," several musical numbers and the life and the works of Longfellow.

When Miss Redfield visited us this year she told us that the future of our High School rested largely with the Freshman Class. We appreciate this responsibility and hope to make the future of our High School a very interesting one.

The Freshman

Who is it that must humbly grin
When to the classroom he goes in,
And hears the teachers preach again?

The Freshman.

Who is it as he goes his way,
Up to a class room just to say:
"Yes, we have our lessons today."

The Freshman.

Who is it that work night and day,
While others dance across the way,
Who seldom gets a chance to play?

The Freshman.

Who is it that strives so hard to be
A faithful friend to you and me,
Who answers Man's first waking plea?

The Freshman.

Who is it all the teachers know
Will be there, sunshine, rain or snow?
Who joys to see their knowledge grow?

The Freshman.

ATHLETICS.

Athletics In General

In all the years in which Malad has participated in Athletics, this year, 1923-24 has probably been the most successful. In previous years the school was not large enough, and not enough interest was taken in Athletics to produce much material. But we have found in the more recent years that if our school has Athletics a better spirit and greater interest is shown toward everything.

This year saw the students very eager to make a place for Malad High School in the athletic world, and they did. The Football season started with vim. Somewhere around thirty boys reported on the field to start. The best were chosen from those, the rest remained to practice the team. One great disadvantage was the lack of sufficient suits. We had hardly enough for the first team, let alone the second. The boys, however, were determined to finish now that they had started.

Then came the first game, which was with Bear River High School. Malad won this game, which tended to put more vim in them. In all the games they played during the year, they lost but three. These were Box Elder, Pocatello and Preston.

The good success in football prevailed also throught the basketball season. This, with the excellent work of Coach Hale, won the game with our only opponent, Wooten. Later we won the tournament at Pocatello, winning from Bancroft twice, Pocatello once and McCammon once.

For winning at Pocatello they got half the gate receipts, which amounted to four hundred and some odd dollars. As this wasn't enough to send the boys to Moscow, we held a dance and raised the balance. It was here the people of Malad supported us—and support us they did. The hall was very crowded, besides the many who bought tickets and didn't come.

At Moscow the boys were defeated twice, but they accepted defeat with a smile. Mosow and Rupert were the teams that defeated them, Moscow by a score of 11-23 and Rupert by 22-24.

In summing things up, we had a very successful season in Football and Basketball. Let this be something for the future M. H. S. to look forward to and try to excel. Clean playing, good spirit and sportsmanship along with hard work, will always bring VICTORY.

Summary of Football Games

M. H. S. vs. B. R. H. S., at Malad, October 23.

This game will always be remembered because it was the starting of the most successful season M. H. S. has ever known.

The game started with Malad receiving the kick-off. It was then on in real earnest. You know everybody is excited until after the kick-off. "Bru" Hunsaker and "Brooks" Bolingbroke scored for Malad, each making two touch-downs.

"Bru" made his with hard hitting, while "Brooks" scored his with long runs, making one of 95 yards. This took the snap out of the Bear River High and they took the small end of a 28-0 score.

M. H. S. vs. B. E. H. S., October 5.

The grid squad of M. H. S. met the Box Elder High football team on the local field. The visitors, outweighing the local team, pushed them about the field the greater part of the game, but the scrappy M. H. S. team fought a hard game until the final whistle.

The local team completed one of the longest and most sensational passes ever pulled on M. H. S. field. It was passed from quarter-back Lynn Williams to right half-back Bolingbroke, who carried the ball thru for a touchdown, and the line held strong while Williams made the other point count. It was a hard-fought game, Box Elder winning by a 7-25 score.

M. H. S. vs. B. Y. C., at Logan.

The date, October 12, 1923, will be remembered probably more than any other in the football season—but let me tell you—

The boys were anticipating another victory. Of course this meant work. Work they did, and in one tremendous center buck, Ben was crippled by a broken leg. A little later Brooks, the half-back, took the ball for a 95-yard ride to a touchdown. Lynn made the kick-over. B. Y. C., of course, made a touch-down but failed in the kick, which made the score 7-6 at the end.

M. H. S. vs. B. R. H. S., at Bear River, October 28.

A nice Friday afternoon in the latter part of October, the boys went down to the Bear River High School.

They played a real game and fought well. The Bear River boys were not without honor, either, but it seemed from the side-lines that

THE MIRROR

Malad was better. And also from the score, which was 12-2 in favor of Malad. Joe Earl and Dave Ezell were the scoring men for Malad.

M. H. S. vs. Pocatello H. S., at Malad, November 11.

The boys had barely started to school again after a two weeks vacation when they played Pocatello. Of course they were beaten, and beaten badly. But that didn't stop us from playing hard. They excelled us in team work, but not in fight or spirit.

At the end of the first half it was a non-score game for Malad, but by a spirited come-back in the second half we managed to put the ball over the opponents line, scoring for Malad. At the end of the game we were forced to accept a 32-7 score.

M. H. S. vs. Preston H. S., at Malad, November 16.

It is hard to win from Malad on their own grounds, as is shown by the game with Preston. Although the Preston boys tried to score and fought bravely, they were forced to take defeat.

The Malad line was like a brick wall for all they moved when Preston hit them. Preston was forced to take the small end of a 7-0 score.

M. H. S. vs. Preston H. S., at Preston, November 23.

Due to some of the boys riding in separate cars and having car trouble, some of the main Malad players did not get there until after the game had been in progress several minutes and Preston had a considerable score.

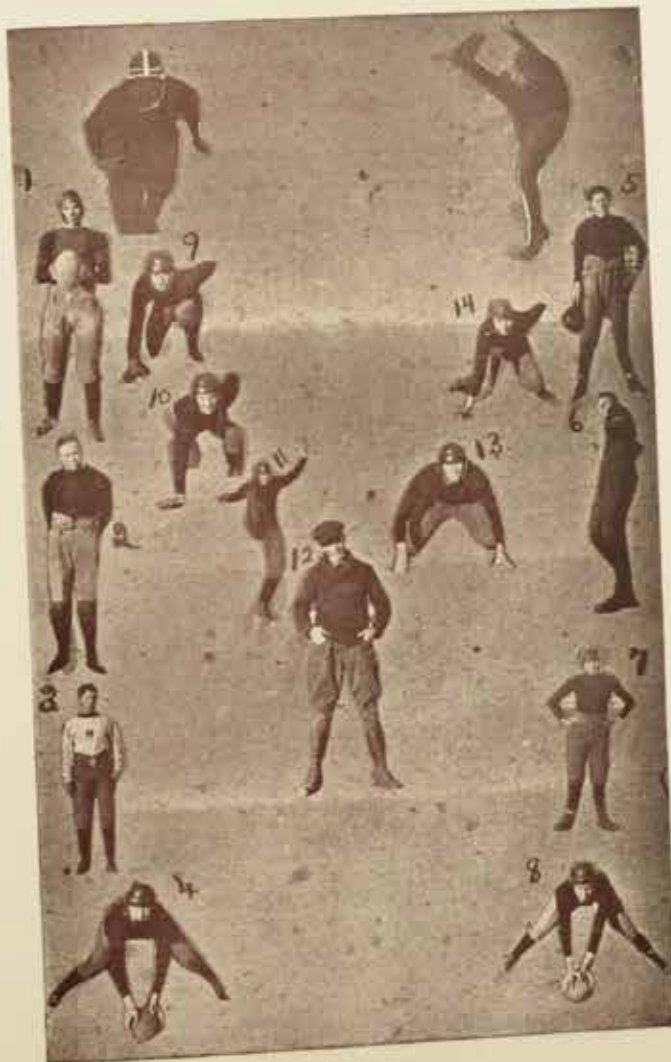

The changing of players slowed Preston's game considerably, but at that Malad had to take the small end of a 38-3 score.

M. H. S. vs. B. Y. C. Seconds, November 28.

This was the last game of the season and we were looking forward to it because our team had won from B. Y. C. and they had sworn revenge.

At last the eventful day arrived and we flocked to the field. There was talking and laughter everywhere. The whistle blew. A long, loud cheer rent the air—and the big game was on.

Harry Thompson, with the wonderful support of team-mates, succeeded in putting the ball across in the first half. In the second half B. Y. C. fought a little harder, but Lynn Williams managed to carry it across once. It surely did one good to watch how the boys fought and how after a hard and strenuous game they left the field with a score of 13-0. And so ended one of the most successful seasons Malad has ever had.

Track Meet

The year 1924 was the beginning of track meets in the M. H. S. The work done this year was very good and from all appearances the M. H. S. has started something which will add further to the honors of the school in athletics, and make for Malad a name worth mentioning in future track meets. This year's track meet consisted of the Class Series, the Seniors being the champions.

The results were as follows:

- Seniors, 62 points.
- Sophs, 38 points.
- Juniors, 12 points.
- Frosh, 12 points.

Basket Ball

For the year 1923-24 Basket Ball started with a zip. The class series was won by the Sophomores. By this means Coach Hale was enabled to choose the team. We had no gymnasium, and the hall was inadequate and insufficiently heated. We overcame these disadvantages as best we could and with the undying support and untiring effort of the boys, our team came out victorious in our division, having won two out of three of the games with Weston.

At the district tournament of Southeastern Idaho, held at Pocatello, Malad won all her games and became champions. Then with the help of the people of Malad and the students of M. H. S., sufficient funds were raised to send our boys to Moscow. After a tiresome journey, our fellows lost two games, which eliminated them. This is just a start, watch us grow!

MUSIC

Maybeth Bowman
Director of Music Department

The Music Department

The Music Department of the High School was organized at the beginning of the second semester. This late start was due to the lack of employing an instructor. Tryouts were held the first of the semester and from that time on a great deal was accomplished. The Glee Club aided greatly in the assemblies and the like during the year. Besides producing the operetta, "The Gypsy Rover."

The M. H. S. orchestra made a very good showing this year. It was well organized, and by playing at school dances they secured enough money to buy more instruments. Thus they have not only furnished music for the school, but they have added new material to the music department.

THE OPERETTA

The opera of 1924 was given March 28, by the High School Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Maybeth Bowman. The leading parts in the opera, "Gypsy Rover," by name, were taken by Leonard Castleton as Gypsy Rob and Thelma Dredge as Lady Constance. The two robbers Sinfo (William Anderson) and Mario (Virgil Camp) were very unusual robbers "For they leave the poor alone, but, the rich they rob out of house and home." James Thomas, or Sir Lord Craven, "don't y'know," was not afraid of the robbers, oh no, he was just being polite to the brave young men of the forest. Other parts were well taken by the members of the cast, and on the whole it "went off" very well.

Do Without Club

THE year of nineteen twenty-four saw the perfecting in our school of a very important organization, called the "Do Without Club" whose aim was to promote the cause of good English and the doing away with all slang expressions. Virgil Evans was honored as president, with Edna Illum as vice-president and Mae Kohler secretary, to foster the cause and promote the interests of this club.

One day there came the great test of life for Mr. Bad English, which was a trial to decide life or death for him in our school. In the exalted courts of the Junior Class, with jurymen numbering six, Mr. Kenneth Larson with all sobriety sat composedly upon the bench and heard the petitions and pleadings of the opposing factions. "What shall the verdict be?" he asked the jurymen in a low, solemn voice. Unanimously and unwaveringly they rendered the verdict—"Death to all slang and bad English!"

Solemnly, with bowed heads, the Sophomores gently carried the corpse of this executed friend of ours to its final resting place. We felt the loss of this old friend of ours for a good many days, and often wondered how to say what we wanted to. But time filled these vacancies with new words and new expressions, and our new friends are more dear than the old ones.

With honor at stake, we pledged our support to the cause of Good English by signing our names and wearing pledge pins in the determination of our fight.

We started our work by holding meetings every two weeks and carrying out beneficial and instructive programs.

What shall we say of the results? Are we doing the good we intended? Do we reach into the lives of our class mates? Where have gone the "ain'ts" and "gots" and "hain'ts" and "have gots?" They aren't with us any more, they are only a dream of the past. You can mark the path of success of the "Do Without Club" in the M. H. S.

The City Government of M. H. S.

THE Malad High School City Government was organized in February of 1922. We believe that in order to be educated, we must not only have a wide knowledge of Science, Mathematics, English and History, etc., but that we must also know how to be good citizens. We must understand government, its workings, and know how to cast an intelligent vote.

Our city government has afforded us ample opportunity to learn this trade of being a citizen.

But it seems that we never really appreciate a good thing when we have it, until it has been taken away from us once. And so is proved with our city government.

At the first of the school year an election was held and officers were elected. But it seemed that the citizens were not sufficiently interested in the government to support them after they were elected. So with plenty of fault on the part of all concerned, the government's efficiency kept going down and down, until at last the citizens awoke to the fact that the faculty had taken away the city government. For some time all control lay in the hands of the faculty of the school.

But finally meetings were called and the city government was voted in again and all citizens and the faculty pledged their support.

The only change made was in the method of nominating candidates for office. Instead of by party conventions and political bosses, the candidates are now nominated from the floor of the assembly hall in a special meeting called for that purpose. This is a more democratic method and brings the government in a closer contact with every citizen.

We must remember that no government is any better or any worse than its citizens make it. We can not expect the officers to carry on alone, but we must get behind them and support them.

"Be a booster of the M. H. S. City Government."

"Daddy Long Legs"

STUDENTS and others concerned were indeed surprised when it was announced that "Daddy Long Legs" would be presented by the Malad High School. Nevertheless the cast was chosen after try-outs before faculty members, and rehearsals began at once. In the short time of three weeks under the strenuous coaching of Miss Bowman, the play was ready for the stage. It was presented on the 14th day of February, to a large and appreciative audience. George McKay, in the role of "Daddy Long Legs" held the audience from the first, as did Lucile Anderson as "Judy," the heroine. The play was centered around these two characters, beginning with a friendship when Mr. Jervis Pendleton, later "Daddy Long Legs" visited an orphans' home, where he first met the heroine. And, as all love stories go, they were married in the end. Assisting characters were: Mrs. Lippet, portrayed by Ardella Anderson in a very pleasing manner. Freddie Perkins, Sadie Kate, Glad-iola, Loretta, and Carrie the servant girl. Those taking the part of the orphans were Lyle Barnett, Leah Chandler, Marietta Reese, Orpha Davis and Eva Williams. The trustees were represented by Reed Zundel, Walter Hughes and Mae Evans. Mr. Zundel is in line for a trustee as soon as he gets out of school. Mae Evans as the haughty Miss Pritchard did very well. Madora Hutteballe as the inquisitive Mrs. Semple kept the audience in an uproar. Other characters were Kenneth Thomas as a college boy by the name of Jimmy McBride, Faye Briggs and Lorraine Hanson as Julia Pendleton and Sally McBride. Mrs. Pendleton was portrayed by Dorothy Fredrickson, Virgil Camp as Mr. Pendleton's dashing young secretary and James Thomas, the butler, whose antics kept the audience in an uproar. It seemed to be greatly appreciated by the townspeople as well as by the school.

Senior Class Play

The Senior Class play, "All of a Sudden Peggy," presented April 18, was a decided success. The leading parts were taken by Rachel Miffin as Peggy, daughter of Mrs. O'Mara, who was continually surprising the audience by doing something "All of a Sudden," and Royal Swenson as Jimmie Keppel, rich young son of Lady Crackenthorpe; Viola Palmer as aristocratic Lady Crackenthorpe, and John Lusk as Major Phipps, her brother, ever ready to do anything "for the good of the family," took their parts exceptionally well. Other characters were good also. They were Esther Thompson as Mrs. O'Mara, Ben Harding as Lord Crackenthorpe, bachelor son of Lady Crackenthorpe, interested in trap-door spiders; Delilah Bush as Millicent; Mary Jones as Mrs. Colquhoun; Reed Zundel, obstinate butler

"Kindness"

Kindness spoken every hour,
 Keeps our anger within power.
 Drives away the sorrowful tear,
 Gives us all a hearty cheer,
 And our friends are more sincere.

Why should unkind words be spoken,
 And a true friend's heart be broken?
 Just because we never thought,
 How much sorrow would be brought
 By our unkind words.

If we speak a kind word true,
 Not a friend will e'er feel blue,
 And will always give a smile
 That may help another.

—IONA WEST

Beside the Brook

AS Nature ever portrayed herself so beautifully as in the crystal-like waters of the little brook? All cares and troubles are dropped when the song of the brook is heard. It ripples over the stones and it seems never to grow weary of its long course towards the ocean. It falls over crags, drops into whirlpools, and its clear waters are now and then disturbed by the small fish darting hither and thither, but it never ceases its long course to the ocean or the end of its journey, which, compared to our lives, is success.

Let us take heed of the lesson the brook teaches us. Let us sit by the brook and plan our lives after the way the brook reaches success. It never becomes discouraged when its waters are frozen, but in the Spring it again begins its endless journey. So let us climb to success always singing, always beginning anew when we make mistakes, like the brook in the Spring after the Winter has stopped its course toward the ocean. When it has reached the ocean, it is a part of it, not distinguishable from the other waters. So it is with us. When we have attained the highest point of success we are a part of the great populace who have reached success step by step and we are thought of, not as one striving for success, but as one who has attained success. We have taught our lesson to the world on our climb upward and have now left the way clear for those who are coming after us to teach the same lesson to the coming generation.

—EDNA RICHARDS

The Track of Life

"Clear the track; they're off," we cry,
 And soft it echoes against
 The distant hills and sky.
 "They're off," they echo back.
 Who's in the lead? the Senior is.
 Ah, 'tis a noble steed;
 Well organized and trained to work,
 A single leap, and then, a burst of speed.
 The Junior carries colors close behind,
 Gaining way at every thrilling leap:
 A gamier creature never will be found,
 For never on his knees will Junior creep.
 Next comes the Sophomore so demure,
 With eyes now wide with fear;
 You know the Freshman beat him
 In the tug-of-war last year.
 They're not so great with speed
 As others that I know;
 But I'm here to tell you friends,
 That Sophomore horse can go.
 And last along the track
 The Freshman horse does run;
 But I will warn you, friends,
 You'd better not make fun.
 The Senior is ahead of all;
 He has the better start,
 But such tremendous bursts of speed
 Would break a Roman's heart.
 The race is not unto the swift,
 So people always say:
 "Beware ye swift-limbed Senior
 We might beat you yet to-day."
 The track is long and weary, friend,
 Aye, a long and weary flight:
 And ere the day is over,
 We might have reached the height.
 While you, quite satisfied below

In some secluded spot;
 And while the others go above,
 Accept that for your lot.
 And so farewell, proud Senior.
 We'll meet again, some day;
 And when we do, my dear old friend,
 'Twill be in a different way.
 —GENE BISSELL.

"To Duty We are Bound"

When life's dim shadows o'er us spread,
 Fond recollections may be found,
 Of those once living, long since dead,
 Whose aim in life was to duty bound,
 Their works stand out like a flaming torch,
 Ah, the drop of a tear, for the sense is touched,
 Thru life's hard struggle, thru sunlight's scorch,
 Foundations they made from the bottom up.

They made a home in this glorious west,
 A home of the brave, in the land of the free,
 Competing with time they stood the test,
 The result, a pure Democracy.
 A trumpet blast in the early morn,
 Announced the dawn with a reddening sky,
 Behold, an army tired and worn,
 Proved a generation was passing by.

Though they are gone to some foreign shore,
 They left us here, and all they ask,
 That we shall think of the past no more,
 But settle down to our noble task
 Of making a name, and fame, renown,
 By the gifts of our ancestors, handed down,
 If such is our mission, why earthly prattle?
 Get into the thick and thin of battle.

Yes, we shall grasp it most instantly,
For this is our greatest facility.
We conquer the task tho the trial is hard,
We grit our teeth, saying not a word,
For the joy is ours and ours to hold,
Worth more to us than worldly gold.

When into life's turmoil we step,
We must expect hard knocks to come,
The struggles try our souls to wreck,
Our joys won't sell for any sum.
Let these few words be our aim and creed,
In reasoning, all be sane and sound;
And when our country feels the need,
"Into the ranks and to duty bound."

—VIRGIL CAMP

"The Triplets"

The mystery of the universe,
No living thing can solve;
The question of the solemn hearse
Unanswered, I resolve—
"Of all the strange phenomena
In heaven, land and sea—
A world of peace and harmony
Is best of all to me."

In gazing down the stream of life,
To concentrate the while,
I hear the murmurs 'mid the strife,
But seldom see a smile.
Tis one of Nature's common laws
That man consists of three;
"The one he is, the one he was,
The one he longs to be."

---

The Man he was, who should have long
Been buried in the past,
Is resurrected from the throng,
Where all must end at last.
All judgement by a mortal man,
From this deluder springs,
And cast him off, you never can,
He clings—forever clings.

An ancient proverb, sharp and true,
Of feathered birds will tell—
"Your fellow men consider you
Like those with whom you dwell."
Oh! Live ye that this spectral form
A comforter will be,
Instead of one to do you harm,
By tagging after thee.

The greatest phantom of the troupe,
The greatest of the three,
The angel of our youth and hope
In dreams alone we see.
Ambitious ones with high ideals,
Oh strive for your degree!
Accomplishment no thief can steal,
For you possess the key.

The partner of the phantom pair,
The world beholds alone,
And looks upon his brow so fair,
But never hears the groan.
Still, all in all, the three are one,
The one alike is three;
They march toward the rising sun,
Behold! They're part of thee.

The lively personage of hope
Trips on a rod ahead,
While man can only blindly grope
Through fog, as he is led,
In marching onward through the night,
Toward the rising sun,
'Tis at the dawn of heaven's light
That all become as one.

The Future

 OR what reason stand we here idle?" Those memorable words of our great statesman, Patrick Henry, are sounding over the length and breadth of this grand country of ours. Those words today do not mean that man must take up arms against his neighbors, for now we are rich and powerful. No, they call for action in a different sense; they call for that action which will create, and hold, friendship among fellow men.

We have leaders today, but will we have leaders in the future? That future which we, ourselves, are going to make, and be held responsible for when history records. We stand now in the prime of life facing a future, but what will that future be? Grand, glorious and peaceful, or, will it be dark, dreary and full of breaks and interruptions? No man can answer that question better than ourselves, and we are moulding that answer every day of our lives. No people in the past had the opportunities we have, but, this is the question; are we making the best of our opportunities? Are we plunging forward? Will any of us on some near date burst forth upon the world with ideals and determination to make the world advance, as did Aristotle of old, or Gladstone and Lincoln of the new epoch? These men did not burst upon the world all ready and prepared, but they began their preparations from early manhood. Franklin brought forth new ideas and ideals, but, he began his noted career by making an almanac.

This is the point I wish to emphasize: We must build the ladder on which we are to climb from our present position to fame in the future, and we must mount that ladder round by round.

The future leaders must not be leaders in war, they must be leaders in education, achieving success, and, above all, overcoming that powerful grip of jealousy.

Now, as I said before, we stand in the prime of life, dreaming of the future. Make those dreams of high ideals, and always work to accomplish this. Of course difficulties will arise, but, difficulties are God's, and when sent upon them we should deem it a proof of God's confidence in us, and profit accordingly.

The world has said many times that these leaders were young men to have achieved such success. They were, but years have really little to do with man's age. It's the use a man makes of his years that ages him or keeps him young. Then it is that a man knows he is a man. He knows that manhood is not a matter of years, and knowing this, he has dreamed a man's dream. In the world he has found something to do, a man's work, and from his occupation he has gained knowledge. He knows the dangers and blessings of traditions; he has gained the heights which are fortified against temptation, and from these levels, so far above the lowlands, has looked upon life. These are the things that count far more in life than years, so, although he is still young, the man is ready for success. He is in the fullness of his manhood's strength. The tide of life, for him, has just reached its heights.

So it is he has fulfilled his mission in life. He, in old age, may dwell in memories, and the world will say, "There is a man!"

—JOSEPH EARL

Malad Valley

THE name Malad was given this valley by the Indians. The Indian meaning of the word is "poison water," or bad water. Many years ago, before the white men came into the valley, the Indians lost many of their animals, killed by a poison plant which grew along the Malad River. The French meaning of the word Malad is "sick." Up until about eighteen years ago the word was spelled M-a-l-a-d-e.

The first settlement was made in about 1860 at what is now Samaria. In about 1864 the first settlement was made in Malad.

The growth of the valley has been due to the favorable farming conditions. The art of dry farming has been fairly mastered, as the valley is best suited for that. A branch of the Oregon Short Line was bought into the valley to carry out their products and bring back the needs of the farmers.

At the present time the valley is entirely under cultivation, or being used for some useful purpose. The valley is encircled by a chain of gigantic mountains except at the southeastern part, where there is a gap that leads into the state of Utah. Small villages and settlements are situated all over the valley, namely Malad City, Samaria, Pleasantview, St. John, Cherry Creek and other small places.

The future prospects of this valley are very promising. The sugar beet industry has grown to quite an importance, and by the completion of the reservoir at Elkhorn a great deal more of the valley will be placed under irrigation. This will mean a flourishing sugar-beet industry, which will in turn mean the establishing of a sugar-beet factory in this valley.

Another promising industry in this valley is the dairy business. It has been growing so rapidly in the last few years, and is still so very promising that a cheese factory is under construction.

With the very great prospects that this valley has, within the next ten years we expect to see a great change for the better.

The Social Year

SOCIETY has constituted a good part of the school activities this year, with dances and parties given by the faculty and the different classes. The Valentine party, with its King and Queen of Hearts, and Cupid peeping from all corners and shooting his arrows into every one's heart, was by far the most successful party of the year. The leap year ball given by the student body was pronounced a success by everyone. The Junior Prom, with its restful cozy corners, its bowers of roses and its red and white streamers, will always be remembered as one of the leading social events of the year. The May party, one of the most elaborate social functions of the year, was a grand finale for the parties and dances of the season.

The Senior Party

How about the Senior Party? Land sakes, wasn't that the best of the season? When a feller walked into that there dancin' hall and seen the decorations, smelled the ice cream and wafers, heered the jazzy music and seen the 'appy, smilin' faces, he jest couldn't help sayin' "By jove, here's where I stay." An' dancin' and dancin' and more dancin' an' the Preston football boys a stickin' there and helpin' things along. I'll give my word on it, anybody, there ain't been a party this whole season able to beat it. Who give it? Why the class o' '24. That clears matters for yu. But what else cud yu expect from a husky, scrappin' bunch like they is?

The Junior Party

The Junior Party, given by the Junior Class of '24, proved a wonderful success. The party was held December 14 in the Malad High School assembly hall. The usual bareness of the hall was taken away by the clever and artistic decorations, which were in the Christmas colors, red and green. Red bells and holly were the predominating note in the decorations. The program was very interesting and clever, although short. The jazzy St. John orchestra furnished the music for dancing until eleven-thirty, then dainty refreshments were served, after which everyone departed reluctantly for home.

The Sophomore Party

One of the most interesting events during the school year was the Sophomore party, given January 18, 1924.

The hall was most artistically decorated with the colors, gold and purple, which seemed very appropriate for the occasion.

A short, but well arranged, program was given. The short, spicy jokes given by LeRoy Thomas and Lynn William put us all in good spirits and made us better able to enjoy the refreshments. The song rendered by Denece Evans, Edna Richards and Dorothy Fredrickson put sunshine into our souls, and made the evening more enjoyable. A toast by Miss Wilson; here the Sophs were roasted and toasted, and were greatly amused as we saw ourselves as our teachers see us. Dancing was the main feature of the evening. Music was furnished by the St. John orchestra.

The Freshman Annual Ball

It is customary for the upper classmen, especially the Sophs, to rather look down upon the poor, green Freshies, and no one doubts that fact.

However, the Freshman class of this year has done something to command the respect of the other classes, temporarily at least, perhaps permanently.

Didn't the Frosh give one of the most successful parties of the year?

Yes!

For, weren't the decorations clever and appropriate?

Didn't the Freshmen prove their loyalty by supporting the party?

Didn't the faculty show an interest in the class by coming?

Didn't they play some interesting games for the sake of those who did not care to dance?

Wasn't the music good?

Didn't everyone enjoy the dainty refreshments?

And, didn't everyone report a good time?

Yes!

Then could the party have been called anything but successful?

No!!

The Junior Prom

Magnificent in every detail was the Junior Prom, given March 14. Certainly nothing could have been more perfect than that event.

On entering the hall, one was given a program which was made of red and white paper. The cover was red, being in the form of a large "M" with a small H and S on each side of it, standing, of course, for Malad High School.

From a decorative point of view, the hall was superb. A massive canopy of red and white streamers was arranged over head. Secluded rest rooms in each corner were very inviting with their rugs and cory chairs behind bowers of roses and in Japanese rest rooms.

Soon came the grand march, consisting of Juniors and Seniors. Red and white carnations were given to the Juniors, and pink and white to the Seniors before the march began. The march was very unique. The Seniors formed an "S" to represent Seniors, and "J" for Juniors, and the Juniors formed the letters "M" "H" and "S" for Malad High School.

Needless to say, the refreshment booth, where punch and wafers were served by little girls charmingly dressed in white with little red caps, was an extremely popular place between dances.

Are we glad we went to the Junior Prom? Well, rather!

Girls' Day

Girls' Day, one of the biggest and most successful events of the whole school year, was held April 11. It was very amusing to the girls to see how the boys' curiosity was aroused. As this is the first year we have held a Girls' Day in M. H. S., the boys were held in suspense for the whole week preceding it. The girls all came "decked out" in their new spring dresses, prepared to show the boys a real good time, that being the purpose of the day. The assembly hall was decorated in colors very suggestive of Spring. At eleven o'clock all the girls marched into the assembly hall led by their queen, Miss Fern Atkinson. A splendid program was rendered by the girls, with many surprises for the boys. That night the girls called for their boy partners and took them to the dance. In a delightful little Japanese tea garden, refreshments were served. In fact a good time was had all around.

Popularity Contest

The popularity contest began soon after the work on the Annual started. It was decided at the Annual Staff's meeting that two candidates should be chosen from each class. These candidates were as follows:

Luceal Hall and Leland Jones, Freshmen.

Madora Hutteballe and Lynn Williams, Sophomores.

Lucile Anderson and Marion Kerns, Juniors.

Viola Palmer and Eph Bolingbroke, Seniors.

Votes were given for subscriptions for the Annual, and also for snapshots handed in to be put in the Annual.

The results of this contest were:

Winners, Lucile Anderson and Marion Kerns.

Honorable Mention, Luceal Hall and Eph Bolingbroke.

The Social Calendar

- Sept. 10. Registration Day
- Sept. 11. Classes begin. We're here again at nine o'clock. Quite a number of new teachers this year.

- Dec. 14. Where did we go? Why to the Junior party, of course. Clever decorations, dainty refreshments, dancing. It was good.
- Dec. 19. Assembly. Few members school board present. Each gave short interesting talk. Hope they come again.
- Dec. 20. Christmas party.
- Dec. 21. Christmas vacation.
- Jan. 3. Back at school. Vacation seemed too short. In fact so short some students not back yet.
- Jan. 4. Leap Year party. Who are the wall flowers now?
- Jan. 9. Student body assembly.
- Jan. 11. Tonight one could hear strains of entrancing music and joyful voices. What was it? The Soph party. Did they have a good time? Just ask them.
- Jan. 14-18. Good English week. Don't say "ain't," "taint," "have went" nor any other bad words.
- Jan. 18. Meeting of Parent-Teachers assoc. Miss Condit gave interesting reading. Musical selections by Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs.
- Jan. 25. Heard first Lyceum number of season tonight. Professors of music from Idaho Tech gave an interesting program.
- Jan. 30. Faculty in charge assembly program today. Several members of school board present.
- Feb. 6. Sophs gave clever program in

- Feb. 7. Class meeting held today at assembly hour. H. S. City gov't discussed and candidates named for popularity contest.
- Feb. 8. Frosh party. Who said Froshmen couldn't entertain.
- Feb. 13. Mr. James B. Jones and Mr. R. J. Harding gave talks on benefits of city government in the school, at morning assembly.
- Feb. 14. Assembly held today in memory of Lincoln and Washington birthday. Interesting program.
- Feb. 15. Valentine party. Decorations, candy hearts to eat and everything and a king and queen too.
- Feb. 16. Everyone rushing to Erickson studio. Why? Must have pictures taken if they want them in the Annual. "Now then, bend your head just a little bit more—now smile."
- Feb. 20. Assembly this morning, faculty in charge. It seems as though students never behave themselves properly.
- Feb. 22. "Daddy Long Legs" the High School play was presented tonight at the Star Theatre. It was heartily appreciated by every one.
- Feb. 23. Malad basket ball team met Downey on the Downey floor tonight. The score was 55-14 in favor of Malad.
- Feb. 26. Malad victorious again at the Grasshall. This time by a score of 20-13.
- Feb. 27. As today is the birthday of our beloved poet, Longfellow, the - Freshmen decided to give a Longfellow program. It was very interesting.

- Feb. 28. Leap Year dance. There was a lively crowd and the girls surely made it lively for the boys.
- Mar. 7. Malad goes to the tournament at Pocatello! HOORAH! Our team met the Weston team at Preston tonight. The score was 23-20 in favor of Malad.
- Mar. 2. "Do Without Club" organized. "Good English forever" is their motto.
- Mar. 3. Nobody can lie in bed late in the morning now. A new rule made. Students are not allowed to enter their classrooms after the ringing of the second bell.
- Mar. 4. Election of M. H. S. City Government officials.
- Mar. 5. Basketball boys left for the tournament at Pocatello to try for the division championship.
- Mar. 6. Tournament began this afternoon. Bancroft loses to Malad by a 21-14 score.
- Mar. 7. Another victory for Malad! Malad 27, McCannan 24.
- Mar. 8-9. Malad still in the running. Wins from both Pocatello and Bancroft!
- Mar. 10. Didn't we have an interesting assembly today? Well, I'll say! Our basket ball boys there, and they the winners of the tournament, 'neverthing!
- Mar. 11. Our boys off to Moscow to win the cup. "Bru" in high spirits, as usual.
- Mar. 12. Interesting debate in Recent History today. Reed still holds to his principle of "educate the people." The question for debate was, "Resolved: That in electing the President of the United States, the Man should be Considered Before Party Principles."
- Mar. 14. The Juniors gave their annual "Bawl" for the Seniors. In other word, the Junior Prom. Wonderful event. Beautiful decorations, delightful refreshments, large crowd.
- Mar. 17. The team returns from Moscow. Basket ball season is over.

---

- Mar. 19. The boys reported in assembly today the enjoyable time they had on the trip. From what we hear "Moon" was quite a fusser, made a splash into society and was a great hit.
- Mar. 21. Parent-Teachers meeting was held in the High School building.
- Mar. 22. Virgil Camp is Chief of Police and has a very reliable police force. "Virge" is a good scout anyway.
- Mar. 23. I can't remember what happened today.
- Mar. 28. Bang! Miss Bowman's "Gypsy Rover" went off as scheduled and was a howling success.
- Mar. 31. "All of a Sudden Peggy" cast is working hard. Miss Wilson and Miss Condit say it will be given some time in April.
- Apr. 1. Every one as good as an Angel, not a thing exciting at all.
- Apr. 2. Class meetings.
- Apr. 4. Lots of pep. Big banquet and dance for the basketball and football boys. Harry has started fussing again—(he can invite a girl)
- Apr. 11. Girls' Day. The girls reigned supreme. They sure gave a good program too. Just look at the new gingham dresses.
- Apr. 16. Members from the Student Body gave the program today. Many parents responded to the invitations sent. Let's have Parents' Day again.
- Apr. 18. "All of a Sudden Peggy" a marked success. Everyone left feeling that he had been well paid for his time. John, you surely were a scream.
- Apr. 23. You know the Juniors? Well, we heard a delightful program which they furnished in assembly this morning.
- May 2. The last class meetings for this school year. We're not so light-hearted as we act.
- May 9. The Seniors were honored again by the Juniors. Swell time? Well I'll say! It couldn't have been beat.
- May 14. The Faculty called the assembly this morning. Three cheers for them! They think of us to the end.
- May 16. The Graduation Exercises were held today. How strange it is to think that the Seniors will not be back with us again next year.

A Student's Oration

Friends and noble class mates, lend me your ears—I'll return them next Monday. Why sit ye here idle, for whosoever sitteth does not get very far. I say these words as a warning for those who do such things. Be not easy led into temptation, for sour grapes are sour. Be doers of the word, and receive the Noble prize. Cast away evil spirits, for such are the fruits of Satan's harvest. Be heroes in the strife, not cowards; always do good, for such is the first commandment of high school teachers. Receive ye hidden treasures of knowledge, for such is the reward of diligence. Be calm in your iniquities, for anger is root of all evil: brace up, for we know not what hour the examination cometh. Love thy teachers as thyself, this is the second commandment. When your father sees your report card, you will say "Forgive them, Father, for they know not what they did," (meaning your teachers). Be firm and steadfast, although your teachers know where you are going when you die. Why are we like dumb driven cattle, nagged in peace, nagged in battle: give us room that we may dwell, so we may learn to read and spell, for useless studies and the such, which always fail to help us much.

A Dead Sure Thing.

Edmund—My father weighed only four pounds at his birth.
Phyllis—Good gracious! did he live?

Double Action.

Milton—I put a tack on teacher's chair yesterday.
Faye—Did you? I bet she won't sit down in a hurry again.
Milton—No. Neither will I.

Put Salt on Their Tails.

Esther—Have you read "To a Field Moose?"
Levi—No, how do you get them to listen?

Obeied Traffic Rules

Mr. Andrews—(to tardy student) Why are you late?
Tardy Student—Well, a sign down there—
Mr. Andrews—Well, what has a sign got to do with it?
Student—The sign said "School Ahead, Go Slow."

THE MIRROR

Mr. Bingham—Sloan, if there were five sheep in a field, and one jumped out, how many would be left?

Sloan—There wouldn't be any left. You might know arithmetic, but you don't know sheep.

Mr. Maughan—(Catching frisky student by the collar)—I believe the devil has got hold of you.

Freshman—I believe he has too.

Ugimug was about to have the cone put to his nose, preparatory to the removal of a possible pre-cancer.

"Just a word, Doc," he said, holding back the nurses hand. "While I am under the anaesthetic, remove any other blemishes you see."

"Man, man," exclaimed the doctor, "How could you get along without your face?"

Sophomore—You haven't got any brains!

Freshman—Why man, I have got brains that ain't been used yet!

If an English teacher is a book worm, what is a Geometry teacher?

Answer—An angle worm.

Given—A Freshman.

Some Geometry.

To Prove—That a freshman is not worth two cents.

PROOF:

1. A Freshman is a baby. (Proof enough.)
2. A baby is a crier. (Ask any married man.)
3. A crier is one cent. (Ask the Western Union.)
4. One cent is not worth two cents. (That's common sense.)
5. Therefore a freshman is not worth two cents. (Substitution.)

Q. E. D.

"If I only knew what to do with baby!"

"Didn't you get a book of instruction with it, Mother?"

---

Poor Student—Would a person who lived on the border between Ireland and Scotland be Scotch-Irish?
Teacher—No, I think he would be a fish.

"Mamma," said the little boy who had been sent to dry a towel before the fire, "Is it done when it's brown."

---

Bill, when asked to use the words "horse" and "cornet" in a sentence, said "We give our horse corn at noon, and by night he has his corn et."

---

The teacher had carefully and thoroly explained to the children the use of the word "put," and then had asked the children to form a sentence using the word. One girl tried and this was her contribution: "When we got home last night my daddy putten the car in the shed."

The teacher asked the class what was wrong with the sentence.
One boy jumped up. "Teacher, teacher, I know, she went and putten putten where she should a putten put."
(He must have been a freshman.)

475 DEPARTMENT STORES

22 Years

- 22 Years ago—April 14th, 1902—the first J. C. Penney Company Store was opened.
- 22 Years have witnessed many changes, none, however, more notable than the growth and expansion of this business.
- 22 Years of service to the public—a service that has been unflinching and which has been just and alike to all always—naturally have enlisted legions of new friends and customers.
- 22 Years have taken this business by gradual steps on and on until today it serves the people of nearly five hundred communities in the United States.
- 22 Years of building good will and confidence have not only earned the friendship of the people but have created a place in the great markets of the country that gives to it a capacity the equal of that of any other concern, to so buy that it can sell to the public at prices which give real savings.
- 22 Years, we believe, warrants the contemplation of even greater usefulness of our associated stores during the years to come.

"Me for Right Prices."

A country gentleman visiting the city was standing on the sidewalk laughing as though his sides would break. A policeman noticing him came over and asked: "Friend, what are you laughing at; what's the trouble?" The country gentleman pointed to a sprinkling wagon and replied: "Well, can't you see that? That big fool won't have a drop of water left when he gets home."

Students, don't be as green as this friend and go trotting all over town looking for bargains when you can get anything you want at Horsleys' at the right price.

Buick Character Makes Buick Value

Buick value is something more than appears on the surface. It is more than the excellence and beauty of Buick design—more than the greater riding comfort, power and safety that Buick provides. Buick's value comes from the sum total of all those Buick qualities and traditions which together make up Buick character. A Buick owner fully appreciates Buick character. He knows the dependable, satisfying and trouble-free transportation which Buick gives, however long or however far a Buick owner may elect to drive his car.
