EDITORS COMMENTS

We hope this book pleases everyone. We have enjoyed compiling the information. We have been able to get information on most of the former classmates. Those that came in late are in the back of the book. Only one escaped our long search; Gerald Brantzig.

We have taken editorial license with some of the biographies that were a little long and have added to some that were a little too short . . .

Many thanks to Calvin Thorpe who wrote the forward.

The Idaho Enterprise printed the cover.

And this was the word that was given to all good people who did set forth plans in motion.

"Yea, verily, organizers walketh in the ways of misfortune, and it shall be theirs in full measure; for their necks shall be extended, and their tails smashed and their rumps shall be gnawed, and they will receiveth no appreciation there from."

"And there cometh an individual with a Big Idea saying, 'Lo, I have a scheme; listen to my scheme. And we will gather the wild from all corners of the earth."

"Let us negotiate this thing and drag forth the words, reunion-classmate-friendship-fellowship from their hiding places in the dictionary that all may learn their meanings thereof and marvel."

Let us go forth into the wilds and capture our classmates and tame them and when they have been gentled, bring them forth with all their young so they may be counted."

And he with the Big Idea continued, "Lo, amongst those who will return will be many species; such as Bankers, Engineers, Doctors, Teachers, who are closely akin to the wild men of the wilderness; except they wear white collars and have been drilled to walk upon their hind legs. By their very nature are they adapted to existence in places where the grass has been replaced by cement and the air has changed to smog."

"These species will require all the love and friendship of all those species that remaineth in the fresh air and green grasses."

"Yea, verily, organizers walketh in the ways of misfortune and it shall be theirs in good measure..."

Good luck to the organizers and the reunion. Calvin Thorpe

H. Ward Thomas

Malad, Idaho

Mr. Thomas has taught continuously at Malad High since the Fall of 1935. He must have been the youngest teacher on record to be as young as he is today. He says he has started on the second generation here in Malad as he remembers the parents of his present students when they were in his classes. His wife, Helen Roghaar, known to many 4th graders as Mrs. Thomas, has taught for many years in Malad.

He has a son, Don 24, married June 1965, a daughter Kathleen 20, who is attending Utah State University, and a son Tim 16, at MHS. Mr. Thomas has been Malad LDS Stake Clerk for many years and is a worthy example for the student he teaches.

Earl Maeser
388 L. Street
Salt Lake City, Utah

I have been teaching at Granger High for the past 7 years since retirement from government service in 1958. On June 5, since I am now 65 years old, I was retired from teaching and the Class of '65 made me an honorary member. I was issued a graduation diploma as a high school graduate of Granger High, along with 700 other members, with cap and gown and as an honor student, too. So you see I am now a high school graduate and ready to meet the challenges of the world.

Mr. Maeser went to Montpelier High School from Malad High and spent many years working with the Veteran's Department of the government.

Teaching children is one of the noblest of man's professions. . . and one of the most frustrating!
