Foreword

To you—the students of Malad High, we present the 1952 MIRROR. Because around you every activity was centered.

From you came the smiles and tears with the humor and seriousness of the school year. Your laughter echoed in the halls. You cheered at the games and staged dances in the gym.

Everyone contributed something—you were part of Malad and Malad was a part of you. You rejoiced at her victories and wept at her defeats.

Indeed you gave "life" to the school for without you Malad would have been only an "empty shell."

Dedication

To our principal, J. Stuart Halliday, who has constantly striven for the best interests of our school, who, through whole-hearted co-operation with his fellow workers and his efficient management of the school, commands respect and admiration from teachers and students alike—to this outstanding administrator we dedicate the 1952 MIRROR.

Superintendent's Message

Dear Students:

Life is continuously bringing countless opportunities to serve. Through this service you can make a place for yourself even in a world that is selfish and critical. To a degree people are going to expect you to fill a place that may be impossible, unless you have taken advantage of all things in your educational and social experiences during your school days. These achievements come through a persistent effort to conform to a democratic way of life and to equip yourself so that you may be prepared to help make life more meaningful.

As you turn these pages may it remind you that things worth doing are worth doing well. May you grow in success and power through hard work and right living.

Always remember that truth crushed to earth, shall rise again, that your lives are made richer only through fine associations and clear thinking; that happiness depends upon how hard you are willing to work for it. May this nation be great because of your having lived and stood for those things which have made America.

A. O. Simpson

Principal's Message

Success & Happiness Always to Halliday

MALAD HIGH SCHOOL
1951-52

Dear Students,

The Mirror--The Treasure House-- of names, faces and happy times which in each succeeding year will become more hallowed-- As you turn these pages of the past, I hope you will recall your small part in making the year 1951-52 a success.

Yet--from these dusty pages a challenge will always be heard-- "How well are you living up to the ideals which this school tried to instill in you in these troubled times?" May the echo always be-- "I am keeping faith."

To each of you success and happiness--always.

SENIOR DREAMS COME TRUE

Three Helens and a Joyce we've had for homecoming queens
And who could help but say; Hmm' aren't they all but dreams!

Athletes, too, we've had, who've done their share to win
And actors and playwrights and all kinds of talent in the bin.

And a whole class of people with the loviest of charms
The kind that you and I, may hope for someday in our arms.

But now I'm through bragging I'd like to leave a thought
The things we have collected could not have been bought.

These past four years we have collected
Memories and pencil welts, and friends we have elected.

Some faces we have known so well we never more shall see
For it is very hard to know where any of us will be.

But if we never see you more
I'd like to read to you, your score.

For you have taken up a spot deep within our hearts
And we shall remember you, till the world does fall in parts.

We shall remain loyal to good old M. H. S.
Through all the years that we shall live, Malad will be the best!

And again to you who graduate this year, I once more say
Well done in every goal you've set for graduating day!!!!

We looked at the shining star
 In that yonder mass of blue,
 And within each heart was instilled the thought,
 "Go and Do!"
 Learn to make the most of life
 Lose not a single day.
 Just keep on shining like those stars
 That guide the stormy way.
 Life must be full and rich,
 A kind word—
 A willing hand.
 A hand open to everyone
 Whatever the color of his skin
 Or the name of his foreign land.
 Work today!
 No one prepares by living in the land of leisure.
 The future has in store for us
 What we have in store for the future.
 There're so many things to complete and accomplish
 And so little time to act.
 Success is never found on top of the hill
 If the foot is left in neglect.
 As endless as the stars
 Are the memories we hold,
 Long within our souls will dwell,
 These values of our life.
 For these unspoken things—
 Live only in our hearts!!!

BUILDERS

Some men build bridges strong,
With bolts and long steel beams,
Where-by the tide of man may cross.
And ford the swollen streams.

You build a bridge of courage strong
To help some boy to rise
That he may go and prod on
To a brighter life, and prize.

Some men lay long steel rails, I know
They run for miles I hear,
And mighty engines o'er them pass,
You shaped the engineer.

Some men erect great buildings tall,
They almost reach the skies,
You start a young life on the way,
To love, and paradise.

Yet, some build bridges, some build roads,
These bring security, and joy,
I prefer you build the character
Of a priceless girl or boy.

THE FRESHMEN

We are the Freshmen of M.H.S.
The best of all the classes, oh yes!
We study hard and are sincere
And we hope we have made many friends this year.

We know this year has been the best
One of joy and happiness.
We hope next year will be the same
So don't forget to remember our name!!

EIGHTH GRADE

We are the eighth grade students,
 Entering Malad High School.
 Yes, we are the class of "56,"
 Anxious to learn the rule.

We are the under classmen,
 Not as wise as we hope to be,
 But we're eager to learn and to make good,
 With the help of our faculty.

BLAIR GLEED

December 19, 1951

Dear Students,

I got just a little shaky when it came to the big moment, so I've a confession to make. I called for help. I hope this doesn't affect the decisions in your eyes, because basically the selections are my own. I used a sort of a committee made up of people working on our current picture to sustain me. Hope you don't mind.

The selections are as follows: The top girl is Miss Peggy Evans, and very lovely. Here are the maids of honor: Helen Davis, Shelba Price, and Janice Parker. That order is not necessarily the order of preference.

I'd like to have picked every girl whose picture was submitted, but contests aren't made that way. It's a wonderful group of young ladies, and I hope every possible success and happiness will be theirs.

My sincere thanks to you for extending this singular honor to me, and I guess it's about time to say "Happy Holiday" to everyone, too.

My very best wishes.

Senior Class Will

We, the Senior Class of 1952,
 Have heavy hearts as we leave you.
 For four long years we have labored here
 Learning to love our teachers so dear,
 Our parties, and dances and athletic games,
 The opportunity to set higher aims.
 Four years we've had to make good friends,
 And now, as the climax of this path ends,
 We realize that we're left alone
 To make decisions of our own,
 To go on in life as we've been taught.
 We realize we don't know quite as much as we thought.
 So, according to custom of others gone by
 We give our place in this, The Malad High,
 To other students, some who've just begun
 To share in the unforgettable M. H. S. fun.
 And now that the time comes that we must leave
 We have a few things we'd like to bequeath.

I, A Senior girl, named CONNIE BEETON,
 Will to Norma Reed the fun of eatin .

I, MARTELL BEETON, my handsomeness is real
 Need not will to Terry Williams my masculine appeal.
 (He has enough of his own)

I, BARBARA BUDGE, a gal full of pep and cheer,
 Will to Harley Handy my place next year.

I, GAYLENE CALDWELL, with slang a mile long,
 Will to Jay B. Ekstrom the right to be wrong.

I, JERRY DALLAS, a card and a joke,
 Will to Dee Grover my love of coke.

I, DOROTHY DASTRUP, who has moved afar,
 Will to Marlene Willie my many Ford cars.

I, RONALD DENNIS, a lover of the automobile,
 Will to Robert Evans the right to be still.

I, JOHN DREDGE, a flirting young man,
 Will to Errol Thomas the right to flirt, if he can.

I, DANNY EDWARDS, a darn swell kid,
 Will to Marlo Atkinson the right to blow his lid.

I, PEGGY EVANS, who with Gaylene roams,
 Will my swing to Bar Dee Jones.

I, CAROL FACER, so happy and gay,
 Will to all Malad High my pleasant way.

I, JAY FACER, so quiet and nice,
 Will my dimples to Lorna Rae Rice.

a

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

1972 and life is getting tedious. There is only one cure—vacation. We set our course for the moon, the new sensational playland of fun-loving people of all the world, traveling in our jet-propelled space ship. This first night in the fantastic wonderland, we step out on our crater balcony, and with our super-sonic atomic ray telescope we peer through a star-sprinkled mist to the earth.

Of the many people swarming about there, one group looks familiar. Yes, there's our Seniores of school days—Joanne Lusk, Helen John, Barbara Budge, Joyce Williams, Gwen McAllister, Sandra Tovey, Kathryn Moon, and Cherrel Jensen. They seem to be singing on the large stage of the gigantic Malad Auditorium, presenting their 235th monthly concert, accompanied by nationally known Helen Harris.

While we're looking around M.H.S. let's see just who is there—why John A. Jones. What a surprise! He's still trying to get his credit in American Government. And who is his teacher? Why A. J. Thomas, of course.

Someone's moving into the White House. It's Jerry Dallas, our 1951-52 Student Body President. Wonder what he's doing here? Is he the President of the U.S.? No, heavens no, he's the new Janitor, and Gary Lewis is his able assistant.

Wesley Reynolds, Martell Beeton, and Gerald Williams are still carrying the Pigskin, only not for Malad High. This time they're going over the goal line for Notre Dame, and doing wonders at it, too. And there's Leon Sorenson leading the grandstands in cheering for Wesley, Mart, and Gerald. Three years of yell leading in M.H.S. didn't seem quite enough for him.

Broadway has attracted some of our classmates. John Dredge is now playing Romeo on the stage. I guess he did so well sending all the girls in high school that he had to try it in New York.

Queenship and Helen Hubbard are synonymous. In 1957 she won the Miss America title with Helen Rutter and Alice Beth Lusk as attendants; now she is competing for Mrs. America.

At the Nation's Capitol, Reed Probst is just completing a lengthy discourse on a mathematical development of the two postulates, correcting and explaining Einstein's theory of relativity entitled, "Relative Motion with a Uniform Linear Velocity." This is to be published by the Keyhole Publishing Co., Editor Marlene Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Keller seem to be living in luxury. One example is their bathroom, with a fur lined bathtub and diamond studded wash basins, their own design. They must have really profited in the architect business.

We find Peggy Evans, La Wana Jones, Joan Whitworth, Connie Beeton, Gaylene Caldwell, and LaNee Thorpe still keeping up with the Sadie Hawkins Day tradition. Some girls have the worst luck. The rest of their gang, Dorthy and Lorraine along with Beverly Rose are raising little red heads. Among their next door neighbors are Charley Marble and Alaina Williams, each with a sizeable family.

We find Helen Rees, Carol Facer, and Dawnie Jones still adding a ray of sunshine in this troubled world.

The Annual Rodeo at Malad this year is displaying unusual local talent—Ludell Neilson, Emmett Kent, and Darrell Wharton. They are known throughout the West for their outstanding bronc riding. Merrill Wilson, Ronald Dennis, and Darrell Ward have gone all out for their green and blue cars. They manufacture their own cars during their spare time.

Stepping into the boxing ring is Dee Mansfield. Dee and Jay have been boxing since high school days, with Danny as their manager. Their boxing exhibitions for the Armed Services have boosted the morale of the boys a great deal.

Mr. Lund didn't know what he was getting in for when he accepted Gary Williams, Ronnie Scott, Jack Smith, Duane South, and Cecil Sweeton in the fall of 1951. They still don't believe that TNT is an explosive and want to try it out.

There's bachelors in every class, I guess. Anyway Archie, Bert, Ronnie P., and Gordon T. have that honor. They couldn't settle down to one girl.

Edna Hill has reached great heights in her shorthand. She is now personal secretary of J. D. Rockefeller, Jr. The greatest psychologist of all times, Marilyn Hess, is often consulted by unhappy people who want to know her secret of getting along with people.

Still residing in Malad, with their respective husbands are Ilene Jenkins, Ilene Napier, Priscilla Price, and Colleen Williams. They like it here!

In charge of the F.B.I. are two more Malad High grads! Lynn Isaacson, the brain, and Kay Del Jensen, the brawn.

Cecil Hill, and Gorden Thomas are picking out a new cuspidor at Dives Furniture, while Jay Facer is counting his sheep in the Holbrook Hills.
