MALAD CITY DEPARTMENT.

Edited by E. M. Knox. Mr. Berger returned from Oxford Tuesday. Deputy Marshal Jones is seen on our streets again.

Mrs. F. W. White has returned to his place of business, after a week's rest in Malad.

Mrs. Nicholas is having a fine new pocket piece built around her beautiful lot in the upper part of town.

Mrs. Dwight Peck left Malad Tuesday, for Richwood, where she expects to have her foot treated.

Malad has been visited lately by several small companies of Indians, either on their way or down from the Ross Fork reservation.

On Monday evening of next week at the Court house in Malad, the closing exercises of the public school in District No. 2, will take place.

Music, recitations, declamations, dialogues and select readings, will constitute the evening's programme.

All the parents and friends of the children are most cordially invited to be present. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Knox, Teachers.

The arrangements for the Fourth of July at Malad are about complete. W. H. Smith, Esq., is to be the orator of the day; Mr. McMeekin, poet; Hon. Henry Peck, president, and your correspondent has been requested to read the immortal Declaration of Independence.

The exercises will be held in District No. 1, during the forenoon. The afternoon and evening, according to the programme, will be largely devoted to cultivating the beards of the Maladites.

R. T. Bush brought from Oseida, last week, Mrs. Gould and her mother, also Mrs. Stevens and daughter, of Blackfoot. These ladies had gained an experience at Oseida.

They proceeded to one of the hotels and called for lodgings, and were informed that the hotel could not lodge them. They finally succeeded in gaining an entrance, and found that there were rooms enough for the four.

The next morning they picked out a mile of breakfast, and then rode thirty miles to Malad. Such are the accommodations of some of the hotels in Western railroad towns.

Did... On June 28th, of pneumo pneumonia, only child of Rose H. and Sophia Davis, aged one year and seven days. The funeral was attended on Sunday afternoon, at the residence of John Lewis, by a large concourse of citizens.

The young, the lovely pass away. We're to be an age. Earth's latest flowers too soon decay. 'Tis blasted roses remain.

Full of us see the brightest thing 'Tis in the hand on high. Soils in the light, then drop its wing. And fade away, and die. And kindly in the lower air. Then dry the falling tear. They rise to join our hearts to heaven. They go to call us there.

The track of the U. & N. road, from Oseida to the junction with the Oregon Short Line, at Hamlet, was completed yesterday. The large force of hands will now proceed to lay track on the road toward Soda Springs, up and along the Portneuf.
